Do you play in your daily life? What says “playtime” to you?

To be honest not... I don't have interest in playing games... But once when I was in school I had a video game that was too popular in those days...

It was like this and we had a lot of games (fooled 😄) in single gaming castet. With joy sticks and guns. Obviously Mario was one of my favourite games. After being an adult not really fond of games and spending time on it. Often will download farm games like growing grass, buying lands, farming, hens, cows blah blah blah...but not played for more than three days...now I have a Mancala online game...after this blog is published play
